Description

Dialogic Adult Education had spread seeds which have given solid roots to contributions which from the adult education, have been extended and replicated in many other areas, not only of education but in all sciences and in the overall society. Successful educational actions that were born in Dialogic Adult Education are currently implemented in secondary, primary and early education of children in different parts of the world. The idea of successful actions has been replicated in different fields globally transforming barrios and villages: successful health actions, successful employment actions, successful housing actions. Many participants in Dialogic Adult Education have turned into dialogic leaders of diverse social movements. The traditional top-down leadership has been progressively rejected by new potential participants in these movements; the resistance of traditional leaders to lose their individual prominence provokes that many potential participants rejected to be involved. The style of the Dialogic Leadership, bottom-up oriented, achieves social movements with a greater diversity of participants.

Upon completion of the course, the students will be able to:

- analyse the interactions between adult education and all ideas of science and society.
- introduce in the adult education activities the dimensions of its contribution to the improvement of the life of participants in all their contexts.
- make explicit to the wider society including policy makers, companies, and social movements, why allocating resources to adult education is an investment and not an expense.
- open to the participants the possibility to become active agents of inclusive communication of science.
- make participants able to clarify by themselves when a statement is a scientific evidence or is an hoax.
- make participants able to critically analyse the information of the media and the social media
- make participants able to critically analyse the information of the media and the social media.

2.2 Dialogic Model of Living Together in adult education

Prof. Dr. Ramon Fecher, Doctor Honoris Causa by West University of Timisorara

Weekly during the summer semester 2023

3/5 credit points

RECOGNITION: M.A. Pedagogy, GSik

Description:

The Dialogic Model of Living Together is currently scientifically validated by the literature and implemented not only in adult education but also in other fields of education and in other areas of society different to education. The origins of this elaboration had been done in adult education. The Dialogic Perspective or Dialogic Education since the 60s with Paulo Freire and with many other contributions allowed adult education to develop this Model of Living Together based on the dialogue among everyone without any restriction. This Dialogic Model overcomes the insistence on replacing the participation of all, by that of the experts or mediators as the ones who intermediate in the conflicts. This Dialogic Model gives back to every participant the main role in the building of a very good living together in a adult education classroom, in a barrio, in a village, in any kind of social site.

That does not mean that experts are not needed. On the contrary, they are very needed but with a role that does not replace the action of everybody but instead as the ones who promote the participation and the leadership against any kind of conflict of all participants in the group. This Dialogic Model has received the support and the contributions of the Dialogic Feminism. The Dialogic Feminism made by authors as Lidia Puigvert, Judit Butler and Elisabeth Beck- Gernsheim in their dialogues means that all kind of women -including those that are cleaning the homes of the traditional feminist leaders-, they have also the voice for an egalitarian dialogue. The Dialogic Model of Living Together including the Dialogic Feminism and the Dialogic LGBTI+ obtained a great success in the overcoming of gender violence in adult education but also in the overcoming the Isolating gender violence, the violence that is attacking those who support the victims.

Learning outcomes

Upon completion of the course, the students will be able to:

- dialogue about the bibliography of the course
- critically analyze the diverse perspectives of historical and current feminism
- critically analyze the diverse perspectives of historical and current LGBTI+ movement
- promote the feminism of all women among their adult students
- foster preventive socialization of gender violence
- create the conditions to eradicate the Isolating gender violence
- make adult students leaders of the overcoming of gender violence in the family, labour, and social contexts.

Description:

Dialogic Gatherings is a successful educational action currently implemented in more than 15000 sites of the five continents. They were created in the same year that Bourdieu published his book The Distinction, and as Erik O. Wright, then president of the American Sociological Association said: the Dialogic Literary Gatherings has demonstrated that Bourdieu was wrong in his concept of the distinction. There are two main characteristics of all Gatherings. The first one is the dialogic learning, including the seven principles, for instance the egalitarian dialogue. That means that there are no hierarchies, like being a teacher or a participant; all persons are equal, and the value of what they say depends on their arguments, not on their status. The second characteristic is the selection of the books, music,...that are the best creations of humanity; they do not choose commercial best sellers of low quality. With this course on Dialogic Gatherings students will learn about a successful education action with which they will be able to transform the inequalities that adult students have suffered in their lives and which will make them able to enjoy, understand and dialogue with anybody about the best creations of humanity.

Learning outcomes

Upon completion of the course, the students will be able to:

- analyse the scientific and intellectual literature about whether these successful education actions overcome or not the reproductive theorists that have said that education only can reproduce inequalities and not to overcome them.
- create and develop Dialogic Gatherings and their different modalities: literary, musical, feminist, scientific and so on.
- lead the collective evaluation of the development of Dialogic Gatherings by the very participants.
- give talks and dialogue about Dialogic Gatherings with other colleagues, adult students and also researchers and theorists. They will be able to argue about these dialogues.
- Students will learn the social and scientific theories that demonstrate that education is the best way for people to overcome inequalities and how these successful educational actions, the Dialogic Gatherings, do this.

Julius-Maximilian-University Würzburg

The Julius Maximilian University of Würzburg (JMU), founded in 1402, is one of the universities in the German-speaking world that have a long and rich tradition. Numerous famous scholars and scientists have made their mark here, such as Carl Siebold, Rudolf Virchow, and Franz Brentano. So far, 14 Nobel laureates have conducted their research here, including Wilhelm Conrad Röntgen, who discovered X-rays at Würzburg. In 1985, the physicist Klaus von Klitzing received this distinction for his discovery of the quantum Hall effect. Harald zur Hausen was given the Nobel Prize in Medicine in 2008 for discovering that viruses trigger cervical cancer. In addition, ten scientists from the University of Würzburg have received a Leibniz Prize – the most prestigious German research prize.

The Julius Maximilian University is constantly expanding: Since the 1960s, it has been spreading out onto a hill on the eastern edge of the city, called Hubland. A green campus has sprung up there, bringing together large sections of Science and Humanities. This is also home to the University Library, the Mensa dining hall, the Hubland Campus and the University Sports Facilities. In 2011, this area was expanded by a further 39 hectares, offering a huge amount of space for new institute premises and seminar rooms.

More than 28,000 students, including some 2,100 young people from abroad, are registered with ten faculties. These can be divided into four main areas: Humanities, Law and Economics, Life Sciences, and Natural Sciences and Technology. The university and its hospital provide employment for 10,000 people. Around 4,000 are on the academic staff, more than 400 as professors.

Study in Würzburg

The University of Würzburg offers more than 200 study programmes. In addition to this, there are parallel courses and postgraduate courses in Experimental Medicine, European Law, and other study fields. The university also offers some further education courses, such as Psychological Psychotherapy, Purchasing and Supply Management. The Center for Continuing Education coordinates the part-time educational courses for professionals, which are expanded continuously. As an important element in the promotion of young talent, the Julius Maximilian University offers doctoral degrees in all study areas, even in interdisciplinary fields, with intensive tutoring and supplementary multidisciplinary courses. The University of Würzburg Graduate Schools for doctoral students from all disciplines were set up for this purpose.

Research

The university boasts numerous collaborative research centers, graduate schools, and research groups, which are funded by the German Research Foundation (DFG). These top-level research facilities have been secured for Würzburg despite tough competition from other higher education institutions. The Julius Maximilian University is among the most successful German institutions of higher education. This can be attributed to its high-caliber scholars and scientists as well as its interdisciplinary research centers, which have been set up in the fields of Medicine, Science, and Humanities. The university was a pioneer in creating these centers, starting the process as early as the 1990s.

Cosmopolitan

The Julius Maximilian University maintains numerous partnerships with universities in Africa, America, Asia, Australia, and Europe, and strengthens these relationships continuously. In addition, there are considerable relations at the level of institutes and departments. Internationalization is a top priority for the University of Würzburg.

5 Würzburg: University and city

The city of Würzburg

A lot of student activities take place alongside the River Main with its promenades, meadows, and beer gardens: discovering the music and culture of our neighboring continent on the Main meadows during Europe's biggest Africa festival, walking barefoot in the sand at the city beach, or enjoying concerts and theater performances on a floating stage during the Würzburg Docks Festival – all this and more is on offer in Würzburg. Another popular event is the Mozart Festival, where “Serenade No. 13” is performed in a relaxed atmosphere in the Court Garden of the Residence. The distances within Würzburg city center can be covered easily on foot. Sporty people can reach all destinations by bicycle.

There is no lack of sports options in the city; there are cycling, running and Inline skating routes, leading along the River Main or through the vineyards. The university offers a broad spectrum of sports activities, ranging from basketball to yoga.

The university also culturally benefits the city and the wider region: concerts by the Institute of Music Research or exhibitions in the university's museums enrich the cultural scene. For the general public, the university organizes lectures, readings, and other public events.

In addition, there are laboratories for school pupils, a children's university, a school pupils' university, and study programs for senior citizens. All these events combine with other cultural offerings and leisure facilities in Würzburg – theaters, concerts, open-air festivals, and wine festivals – to create an attractive environment in which to live and work.
